

Judith,

I love it! Signature should be very impressed and so should everyone who sees what you've done. What I think is so creative is the way you used white in the center, and that you put them more in the middle instead attaching them to the ceiling.

Speaking of mixing wood and white, weren't you the first to use white cabinets with wood trim long before we saw them everywhere? You even used that mixture on the counter top. This job was one of the eleven folders you had when you first started. If memory serves me, the lady's name was O'brien and you were always correcting me because I kept calling her Margaret.

Judging from these pictures, and all the ovens, I gather she likes to cook. I couldn't see the refrigerator clearly; does it have a glass door? Also, are you still keeping with the "kettle" tradition or is it just a coincidence that one is in the picture...I hope not.

Again, Judith, I think you're still on top of your game.
